

In a qualitative inductive study of Surgeons and Anesthesiologists, my co-author (Judith Clair) and I explore how individuals can work past inter-occupational identity conflicts to complete complex tasks. We are currently collecting and analyzing data for this project.